

Table of Contents

Chapter 1: Introduction.....	1
Chapter 2: Thematic Structure and Syntax	9
2.1. The VP Shell Structure and Thematic Roles.....	9
2.2. LOCATION and LOCATUM	14
2.2.1. The Three-fold Classification of Adjectives	15
2.2.2. Three Types of Predicates and Thematic Roles	27
2.2.3. Some Consequences	33
2.3. Thematic Hierarchy	43
2.4. Word Order and Case.....	49
2.5. More on Case and the VP Shell Structure.....	55
2.6. Summary.....	74
Chapter 3: Resultative Constructions	77
3.1. The Acceptability of English Resultative Constructions	79
3.1.1. Acceptable Resultative Constructions in English	79
3.1.2. Unacceptable Resultative Constructions in English	81
3.1.3. An Account of the Data.....	84

3.1.4. Comments on Previous Studies	105
3.2. Cross-linguistic Variation in Resultative Constructions	113
3.3. Summary	128
Chapter 4: Double Object Constructions	129
4.1. The Proposed Analysis	129
4.2. Constraints on Verbs Appearing in Double Object Constructions	133
4.2.1. Benefactive Constructions	133
4.2.2. Case-related Restrictions	141
4.3. Thematic Constraints on Double Object Constructions	155
4.4. Cross-linguistic Variation in Benefactive Constructions	166
4.4.1. Benefactive Constructions in Japanese	166
4.4.2. Benefactive Constructions in German	183
4.5. Summary	188
Chapter 5: Middle Constructions	191
5.1. Properties of English Middle Constructions and Previous Analyses	192
5.2. A Syntactic Analysis of English Middles	203
5.3. Restrictions on Middle Verbs	213
5.4. Summary	229
Chapter 6: Locative Inversion Constructions	231
6.1. Previous Analyses of Locative Inversion Constructions	233
6.2. A New Type of Unaccusative Analysis	249
6.3. Summary	266
Chapter 7: Conclusion	269
References	277
Index	289